

LAWRENCE WARD is a leadership trainer, family counselor, and technical writer. He began working with FEA as a trainer in 2002. He is motivated to lead financial education classes by his understanding that many family problems stem from the lack of knowledge about personal finances and the conflicts that result.

Lawrence has a Bachelor of Science in Technical Writing from Northeastern University and holds a Master of Education degree specializing in Curriculum Design from the University of Massachusetts in Boston.